NEW YORK HAS TO TAKE A BACK SEAT.

Democrats of Revolutionary Hopes Have a Real Lively Time.

Fighting blood appears to be hereditary.

A number of descendants of Revolutionary heroes met in New York yesterday to perfect a national organization.

The proceedings opened with a lively fight on Governor Green. The new organization, it is prophesied, will be the nucleus of the coming political party which will wipe out Democrats and Republicans.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, May 1.—The gentlemen who, as descendants of Revolutionary heroes, assembled on Tuesday morning in a room in which Washington took leave of his Generals in Fraunce's Tavern, corner of Broad and Pearl streets, met this morning pursuant to resolution in the room of the President of the Produce Exchange to appoint to the work of the committee organized to prepare a constitution and bylaws for the national association which they had agreed to organize.

At that meeting a young gentleman, who said he was a member of the New York Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, said: "Our society was organized in 1885, and will refuse to recognize or consider any of the societies organized excepting as auxiliary branch societies."

A STARTLING ANNOUNCEMENT.

The announcement startled some of the gentlemen present, and those who were not acquainted with the wishes of the New York society to make itself a national organization sought after the meeting the information from those who did know.

Mr. Paul Revere and Mr. W. O. McDowell, the Secretary and the Sons of the American Revolution, said to them that though the New York society was undoubtedly the first organization of the kind, it was a society that had called for a national organization, a call to which 15 States had responded. The New York society had refused to recognize or consider any of the societies organized in the several States excepting as auxiliary branch societies and had assumed to make itself a national organization by a few changes in its constitution, although its roll of membership at February 28, 1888, numbered only 1,000, and some 20 persons in Connecticut and New Jersey, it numbers but 33 members in the whole country, including the State of New York, who are "residents of New York City or Brooklyn."

NEW YORK ASSUMING TOO MUCH.

"The officers of the society," said the Jersey man, are all practically elected by New York. The rest of the authority is New York. We will not humiliate our State pride by placing ourselves in a position subordinate to any State society, however influential or respectable it may be. Let us organize a society in which there shall be no branches or auxiliaries, but in which there shall be in every State a society having equal rights with every other, with full power over its own affairs, subject only to the authority of the national body, to which all shall be equally amenable."

Clarence S. Ward, in behalf of Massachusetts, said, in response to Mr. Revere's statement: "Bunker Hill is auxiliary to nothing under heaven."

"Connecticut," said Judge Deming, "is subordinate to no other society except a national society, which we will join in creating. With New York, we will join us, without her if she will not."

"Maryland," said Lieutenant J. C. Cressap, U. S. N., will not bow. Her sons of the Revolution will not submit to oligarchy or aristocracy. Michael Cressap and other heroes who lie in Trinity Church yard would rise in indignation at such a suggestion. These remarks and those of like import from others settled the question of New York's assumption of places.

SPONTANEOUS NARRATIVE.

This morning the delegates who answered to the roll call represented New Hampshire, California, Kentucky, Connecticut, Maryland, West Virginia, Maine, Indiana, Missouri, Alabama, South Carolina, Massachusetts, Ohio and New Jersey. The absence of the young man who had at Tuesday's meeting announced that he was a member of the New York society, and who told them that New York would do was not noticed. But there was trouble ahead. It showed up at the election of officers.

The meeting, in the adoption of the constitution as prepared by the committee, rejected the name of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. The constitution makes only males eligible to membership in the national association.

These officers were elected: President, Judge Lucius P. Deming, of Connecticut; Vice President at Large, W. O. McDowell, of New Jersey; Vice President at Large, Hon. H. K. Clayton, of New Hampshire; Colonel A. S. Hubbard, of California; Governor Bunker, of Kentucky; Haydon Fish, Jr., of New York; Major C. C. Kenney, of Connecticut; Hon. P. H. Dennison, of Maine; Burchard Washington, of West Virginia; Governor D. B. Francis, of Missouri; Benjamin Harrison, the President, of Indiana; Colonel G. B. West, of Alabama; Governor Wade Hampton, of South Carolina; Dr. J. B. Morris, of Maryland; L. A. Tarbell, of Massachusetts; R. B. Hayes, of Ohio, and Senator De La Fayette, of Rue de Rome 22, Paris, France.

NO COPPERHEAD NEED APPLY.

Governor Green, of New Jersey, was named as one of the Vice Presidents.

"I object to his name," said Major George B. Halstead, of New Jersey. "He is not fitted for the place. He was a copperhead during the late war, and, as such, was spat upon and whipped in Elizabethtown. I know him. Yes, he is a member of our society in New Jersey. Under our constitution we could not keep him out. His answer to did not fight in the War of the Revolution, though he held a Judgeship and worked for the cause in the civil life."

"I regret exceedingly," said Judge Deming, "that objection is made to Governor Green. We are here to wipe out all animosities, and not to revive the troubles of the late war."

"I'm not seeking to revive the animosities of the late war," interrupted Major Halstead, "but I assure you I would gladly vote for the man for the office, for I respect him—he made an honest and manly fight—the copperhead, no."

Mr. John Hubbard, of New Jersey, spoke of Governor Green as one of the foremost men in the State and one whose election to the office sought by the society would be ratified by the society of New Jersey.

"We should not go back 25 years," said Judge Deming. "Let us look at what the man is to-day."

A REBEL WITHOUT COURAGE.

"Not go back," said Major Halstead, "why, sir, every man makes his history day by day. I made mine since my ancestors made theirs. I carried through the late war the sword which my ancestor used in the revolution. Green had no sword to carry, and had no inclination to carry one if he had one. He was a rebel sympathizer without courage."

On the suggestion of the Major the name of Paul Revere was presented to be the REHEARINGS ENTIRELY LEGAL.

Commissioner Mitchell Interprets a Rule to That Effect.

JUDICIAL POWERS IN THE MATTER.

A Decision That Will Establish a Very Important Precedent.

Commissioner Mitchell has rendered an important decision concerning patent cases. The right of a commissioner to grant rehearings in certain cases is affirmed. This ruling is taken as establishing a precedent which will be much used in the future.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—

Commissioner Mitchell, of the Patent Office, to-day rendered an important decision in the rehearing case of Daniels versus Morgan, which involves the question of the right of a patent commissioner to grant a motion for a rehearing of a case finally disposed of by his predecessor, excepting in the cases either of fraud, error in computation or of the discovery of new evidence.

On March 25, 1888, Commissioner Hall, having previously heard the parties to this interference, awarded priority of invention to Morgan. Four days later a motion for rehearing was filed, and under the commissioner's direction the motion was assigned for hearing on April 10 following. At that time it was fully understood by him that his successor was to take charge of the office from and after April 1.

The motion for rehearing, alleging that in the former decision were palpable errors of law and fact, came before the present commissioner on the day fixed by the former commissioner.

Thereupon counsel for Morgan presented a motion to dismiss the motion of Daniels for rehearing, stating as the ground of said motion that it asks for a reconsideration of a decision of a former commissioner upon the same facts and evidence upon which such decision was based, contrary to Rule 144 of the Patent Office and to the rule and practice of all of the executive departments of the Government. In support of this motion it was urged that by the practice of all the executive departments of the Government no officer has the right or power to re-examine a question finally disposed of by his predecessor excepting in the cases of discovery of new evidence, fraud, or error in computation. Rule 144 is as follows:

Cases which have been deliberately decided by one commissioner will not be reconsidered by his successor except in accordance with the principles which govern the granting of new applications. The commissioner reviews the history of the development of this rule of the year 1880. The commissioner's decision was recognized as a continuing one, placed on the same footing as a court. The commissioner cited a number of decisions made by his predecessors showing that the rule was construed by them so as to include grounds for reconsideration other than the three previously named, and says that he has no doubt that the power of reconsideration conferred by the rule is not limited so as to be confined to the cases of fraud, error in computation, or discovery of new evidence, but is claimed to be applicable to purely administrative errors.

NO ROOM FOR DOUBT.

As to the meaning of the rule, whether, as so expounded, the rule is contrary to law to the extent to which it aims to confer jurisdiction in motions for reconsideration upon the commissioner, the commissioner says he has no serious doubt. The duties of the commissioner, he says, are in part administrative and in part of a judicial nature, and while it may be admitted that the rule limiting the right of an administrative officer to review his predecessor's decisions to the three cases specified may be applicable to the commissioner on his capacity as an administrative officer, it is equally clear that it is not binding upon him in the discharge of his judicial duties in determining questions later parts in such sense that the power of the commissioner to establish rules and regulations is subordinate thereto.

He holds, therefore, that rule 144 is not inconsistent with the law within the meaning of section 482, Revised Statutes, but is a reasonable rule in aid of a proceeding essentially judicial, and therefore the motion to dismiss the motion for a rehearing, for want of jurisdiction, is overruled.

It is a matter of ordinary prudence to look up a cold at once by the timely use of Dr. Jayne's Expectorant, an old cure for sore lungs and throats, and a sure remedy for coughs.
